

Aodhán Ó hEadhra, Treoraí an Turais

Award-winning broadcaster and writer, Aodhán Ó hEadhra, author of “Na Gaeil i dTalamh an Éisc” [The Irish in Newfoundland].

Donegal-born award-winning broadcaster and writer, Aidan O'Hara, has worked as a presenter and producer with RTÉ (Raidió Telefís Éireann – Irish National Broadcasting) and CBC (Canadian Broadcasting Corporation).

He is a graduate of St Mary's College (now Marino Institute of Education), and pursued post-graduate studies at University of Ottawa and Memorial University of Newfoundland in Canada. He has taught Communications and Media Studies in Dublin, Ireland: Communications Centre, Booterstown, the Tallaght Institute of Technology, and Dublin City University.

Through his company, Ashton Media Services, he taught Communication skills to school leavers, business executives, politicians, medical professionals and church leaders. Today, Aidan is engaged in writing full-time, and gives presentations to history and community groups throughout Ireland and abroad.

His filmography include:

The Forgotten Irish: <http://www.rte.ie/archives/exhibitions/1378-radharc/355628-the-forgotten-irish/>

In the Wake of St Brendan

Westward ho! from Waterford

DVDs available at: <http://www.radharc.ie/productions/>