Conas tá an aimsir?

Tá sé go maith.

Talking about the weather is a conversation starter in every culture and the Irish are particularly fond of the topic since the weather in Ireland can change quickly.

Here are some of the most useful phrases which will enable you to talk about the weather.

To speak of the weather in the present, the verb will be tá [pronounced thaw]; in the future it will be beidh [pronounced either bay or beg]; in the past, it is bhí [pronounced vee].

The question:

What's the weather like? is
Conas tá an aimsir?

How to say very...

The idea very is expressed in Irish by adding the prefix an- to the adjective after tá. This may cause a change known as 'lenition', whereby the initial sound in the following word is altered. At this point, just learn the words as they appear with the change and note the new pronunciation. You will learn more about lenition as you continue your study of Irish.

Tuisint

Read the following passages which describe the weather in Montreal during the different seasons. The names for the seasons are:

- an t-earrach (un tyare-ruk) Spring
- an samhradh (un sow-ruh) Summer
- an fómhar (un foe-were) Fall
- an geimhreadh (un give-ruh) Winter

To describe a weather condition which is habitual, a new verb is used, the verb bíonn, which means, it usually is. Thus, bíonn sé fuar would mean it's usually cold, and bíonn sé te means it's usually warm.

An t-earrach i Montreal

Bíonn an aimsir bog.
 Bíonn ceatharra ó am go chéile.
 Bíonn sé scamallach ceathach.
 Bíonn sé ag cur sneachta ó am go ham.
 Bíonn sé grianmhar go minic.
 Bíonn sé ag éiri te.
 Anois is arís bíonn sé brothallach agus bíonn sioc no flichshneacha nó leac oighir ann.

Sa samhradh

Bíonn an aimsir go maith.
 Bíonn sé te brothallach go hiondúil.
 Bíonn sé tirim cé go mbíonn ceatharra ó am go chéile le tintreach agus toirneach.
 Bíonn an teocht thart ar thríocha céim Celsius
 Bíonn an aimsir go haoibhinn.

San fhómhar

Bionn an aimsir fionnuar.
Tosaíonn sé ag éirí fuar.
Bionn sioc talún in áiteanna.
Bionn sé gaofar nó ceobhránach go minic.
Bionn tréimhsí gréine agus ceatharra scaipthe ó am go ham.
Bionn sé ag cur sneachta Mí na Samhna nó Mí na Nollag.
Bionn an teocht timpeall cúig chéim Celsius.

Sa gheimhreadh

Bionn an aimsir an-fhuar.
Bionn an teocht timpeall deich gcéim Celsius faoi bhun reophointe.
Bionn sé scamallach cé go mbíonn tréimhsí gréine ann.
Bionn sé ag cur sneachta nó flichshneachta go minic.
Bionn leac oighir ann go minic.
Fágann sin na bóithre contúirteach.
Bionn stoirm sneachta annanois is arfís.
Séideann gaotha láidre ó am go chéile.
